A PERFECT STORM. UNPRECEDENTED SCALE

COVID-19 outbreak has been brought a lot of changes in social behavior, however this is accelerating digital transformation and people getting used to digitalization.

THE 4 MEGA SHIFTS

Consumer
Behavior in COVID-19

A new lifestyle living at home with working-living-playing at home activities, due to social distancing

The large number of casualties caused by COVID-19 gave birth to a new society full of empathy, compassion and solidarity.

With COVID-19, consumers avoid physical contact with humans, they switch to using virtual / digital media

Referring to Maslow's pyramid, consumers are now shifting their needs from "the top of the pyramid", namely self-actualization to self-esteem to the "pyramid market", namely the need for food, health, and mental & physical security

Mapping out the industry's risks

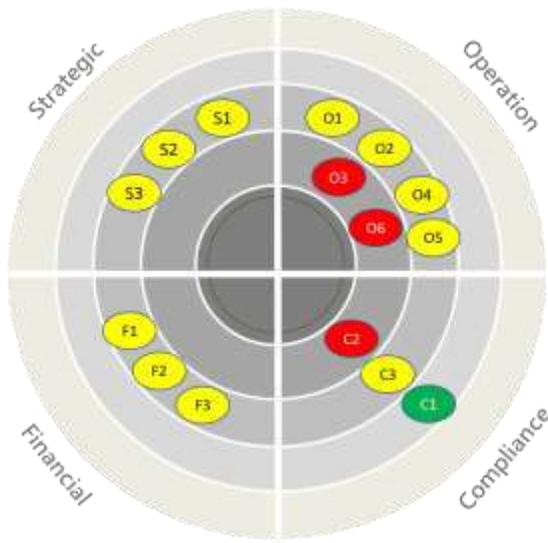

It's against this shifting global and regional background that we've conducted our analysis of the telecoms risk universe for telcos in 2023. As in previous years, we've combined insights from our industry, consumer and enterprise surveys with the evolving perspectives of our sector practitioners to pinpoint the most critical risks facing telcos today. As the "risk radar" shows, we organize the sector's risk factors into four domains – compliance, operational, strategic and financial – and rank each risk on its importance and impact.

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. Insufficient response to customers during the cost-of-living crisis | 6. Failure to ensure infrastructure resilience and reach |
| 2. Underestimating changing imperatives in security and trust | 7. Failure to take advantage of new business models |
| 3. Failure to improve workforce culture and ways of working | 8. Failure to maximize value of infrastructure assets |
| 4. Poor management of sustainability agenda | 9. Ineffective engagement with external ecosystems |
| 5. Inability to accelerate efficiencies through digitization | 10. Inability to adapt to changing regulatory landscape |
